

J P Lee
Chairman
International Chamber of Commerce - Hong Kong

Upon our twenty-fifth year of foundation, we cannot help reflect how more we could have done in developing international trade and cooperation for prosperity and peace of the world.

Inaugurated in 1998, the International Chamber of Commerce – Hong Kong (ICC – HK) seeks to project Hong Kong's economic interest and mobilize them to participate in the activities of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC).

ICC founded in 1919 advocates an open international trade and investment system. It has consultative status at the highest level with the United Nations and its specialized agencies, in addition to enjoying Observer Status at the General Assembly of the United Nations.

As a member of the Hong Kong community, we have undergone the ups and downs of the city, braved the many challenges and worked to facilitate the development of Hong Kong. The road ahead is uneven and uncertain, but we will not lose heart. We shall help foster an enabling business and social environment, so that Hong Kong may continue to thrive as an interantional city favoured by business and sought for living.

We shall play the role of global citizen, participate in the mission of ICC, and contribute to the wellbeing of Mankind. We look upon our partners and the like minded to give their hands in our endeavours beyond.

John KC LEE
Chief Executive
Hong Kong Special Administrative Region

I am delighted to congratulate the International Chamber of Commerce - Hong Kong, on its 25th anniversary.

For a quarter of a century now, the Chamber and its high-profile membership have played a pivotal role in promoting economic and business ties between Hong Kong and the international community, in getting the good word out about Hong Kong's singular advantages under our "one country, two systems" principle. I look forward to the continuing support of the Chamber and its members, in telling the good stories of Hong Kong.

ICC: Making business work for everyone, every day, everywhere

For more than 100 years, the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) has been facilitating global trade, making it more accessible for businesses of all sizes, resolving commercial disputes, and delivering tools and services to our network of over 45 million companies, chambers of commerce and business associations in more than 170 countries worldwide. We also represent the views of local business in global policymaking processes, serving as the voice of the private sector in numerous multilateral forums including the United Nations, the World Trade Organization, and the G20.

Today, it is a great honour to mark the 25th anniversary of ICC's presence in Hong Kong. I congratulate our colleagues and members at ICC-Hong Kong who have been working steadfastly to foster a favourable business environment, championing the attributes that have enabled Hong Kong to become a renowned international business centre, including the rule of law, an independent judiciary, and economic freedom.

In recent years, ICC-Hong Kong has supported the introduction of a new tax for first-hand vacant premises in the face of rising rental and property prices. They have also provided views to the government on important initiatives such as the proposed amendment of the Legal Practitioners' Ordinance, lest the practice of foreign lawyers be restricted; on arrangements with Mainland China on reciprocal recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters.

ICC-Hong Kong also supported the Free Trade Agreement with Australia and entry to the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership Arrangements. Last but not least, they organized the first ICC International Commercial Mediation Competition in Hong Kong in 2020, despite the constraints of the pandemic, and attracted over 20 university teams, who competed against each other from across 16 time zones.

Earlier this year, the ICC International Court of Arbitration celebrated its centenary with a landmark event in Hong Kong – the Asia Pacific Conference on International Arbitration. Thanks to the remarkable efforts and talents of our colleagues, the work of the ICC International Court of Arbitration has grown exponentially in Hong Kong ever since the opening of our local case management office 15 years ago.

ICC is an institution founded out of the ashes of the First World War with a vision that trade could be a genuine driver of peace and prosperity.

We believe that vision to be just as true today as it was over a century ago and we are excited to continue building on our achievements together with you over the next 25 years and beyond.

Warm regards,

Maria Fernanda Garza
